

Welcome to the Greyhound Knowledge Forum

Anti or Pro ..is it time to move on .

quote reply

Kevin Wright
PM meAustralia

★ (Verified User)
Posts 4537
Dogs 1 / Races 1
03 Aug 2017 00:06

REPORT

I was presently surprised to hear some Anti foster groups are struggling for greyhounds to adopt and foster ... I would of thought by now that we should allow all GROUPS ACCESS to every possible Greyhound regardless of their opinions but then again maybe i am wrong ...lol

What now are peoples Idea's and thoughts moving forward beyond 2017. concerning rehoming and do we need to forget the Bullsh1t and just move on or do continue on attacking every body and everything that does not support the racing side of the Greyhound ..

I truly believe every single group PRO or Anti needs support and let's face it without their help we have hundreds if not thousands of Greyhounds not finding homes ...

If these groups rehome Greyhounds should they get financial Help....from the PTB AND from us the Owners trainers and Breeders

Or maybe we leave them to dry and hang out without supportlike we are doing now ...

I know a few of you have very strong opinions so bang away ...

Debate creates Conjecture and Education

I believe each dog should pay 5% of earnings towards rehoming going into theGreyhound rehoming fund Every dog and every group who adopts our Greyhounds receives $1000 ...to help feed desex and rehome all of our dogs

Like (1)

quote reply

John Quarman
PM meAustralia

★ (Verified User)
Posts 226
Dogs 0 / Races 0
03 Aug 2017 03:11

REPORT

Once they identify as anti greyhound racing the industry should not supply one dog for adoption and not one cent to finance their crusade.I'm sure genuine racing people could be set up and financially supported to rehome dogs.The only thing antis should get from us is grief and hopefully a few blood noses.

Like (8)